The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, "Look behind you!" and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. As usual, he has been skipping school that afternoon and has been playing marbles in a nearby pool. Tom and his ragged clothes are dirty and unkept, but Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has learned the lesson of not being caught playing marbles in the pool. Aunt Polly is pleased with Tom's behavior.

Tom goes out of the house into the streets of St. Petersburg. He is whistling a cheerful tune, but he is also a bit worried. He knows Aunt Polly is not pleased with his behavior. Tom is thinking about how he will spend his money. He wants to buy a new watch and some new clothes. Tom is also thinking about how he can get Aunt Polly to buy him a new watch.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Tom tries to get Aunt Polly to do some of the whitewashing in return for a "white alley," a kind of marble. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chooses him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.
