Conceptualizing The State Innovation And Dispute In British Political Thought 1880-1914
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects warily on Tom’s mischief and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. Aunt Polly is satisfied, for Tom has not been skipping school that afternoon and won’t receive the usual punishment. Tom is told to wash his hands and dressed, but his reddish shirt and trousers show he has not been at home. His aunt is alarmed. When Tom is summoned, he is sent out to wash the windows. While washing the streets of St. Petersburg the next morning, Tom shows off his knowledge and emerges as a hero. He returns home, much praised and accepted.

Tom and the new arrival enter the house. Tom goes out of the house and looks for Aunt Polly. He enters the house and finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirty clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to wash the fence. Tom goes by, and Tom turns to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of milestone. Tom almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases Tom off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom's naughtiness and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at supper time. Tom has planned an adventure for himself. He has skipped school that afternoon and went to the zoo, where he fed the birds and threw bits of his clothes at the birds. He has not been to school all week. Aunt Polly is satisfied. She knows that Tom is not a scholar and does not like school. Tom has sworn the boy to disguise his absence.

Conceptualizing the State Innovation and Dispute in British Political Thought

Innovation in its modern meaning is a "new idea, creative thoughts, new imaginations in form of device or method". Innovation is often also viewed as the application of better solutions that meet new requirements, unarticulated needs, or existing market needs. Such innovation takes place through the provision of more-effective products, processes, services, technologies, or business models...

As Table 1 reveals, although there is no standard or commonly accepted definition of an energy transition in the recent academic literature, there is a common theme within them. An energy transition most broadly involves a change in an energy system, usually to a particular fuel source, technology, or prime mover (a device that converts energy into useful services, such as an automobile or...

1. Introduction. The circular economy (CE) concept is trending both among scholars and practitioners. This is indicated by the rapid growth of peer-reviewed articles on CE: More than 100 articles were published on the topic in 2016, compared to only about 30 articles in 2014 (Geissdoerfer et al., 2017). On the other hand, many consultancy reports have been published on the topic recently (with...
