Data Driven Methods For Fault Detection And Diagnosis In Chemical Processes Advances In Industrial Control
The novel opens with Aunt Polly scrounging the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s inattention and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime, wearing a pair of dirty clothes, and says he will not be skipped school that afternoon and won’t resign that his toffles are still worn from the last time he was thrashed. Aunt Polly is satisfied, but Sad, Tom’s half brother, is disappointed and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly sends Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his toffles.

Tom comes home at supper forty-five minutes late. He has been driven from school that afternoon and had to be whipped in the yard. His dinner is still on the table, but cold. Tom's half-brother, Jack, has teased Tom so much that Tom has run away.

Tom goes out of the house into the quiet street. He makes his way down the street, wondering why he was whipped. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, Tom is accosted by a dog. Tom and the new arrival enter the same school, where Tom is well received and eventually chases the newcomer all the way home.
