The novel opens with Aunt Polly scouring the house in search of her nephew, Tom Sawyer. She finds him in the closet, discovers that his hands are covered with jam, and prepares to give him a whipping. Tom cries out theatrically, “Look behind you!” and when Aunt Polly turns, Tom escapes over the fence. After Tom is gone, Aunt Polly reflects sadly on Tom’s misbehaviour and how she lets him get away with too much.

Tom comes home at suppertime. His story is that he has been expelled from school for misbehaving. Aunt Polly is satisfied. Tom has served the sentence of his misdeeds.

Tom goes out of the house in a state of dazed wonder. While wandering the streets of St. Petersburg, he相遇 the new arrival, Becky Thatcher, who is often alone and arrogant. Tom and the new arrival cross paths and eventually choose the newcomers of the way home.

When he returns home in the evening, Tom finds Aunt Polly waiting for him. She notices his dirtied clothes and resolves to make him work the next day, a Saturday, as punishment.

On Saturday morning, Aunt Polly makes Tom out to whitewash the fence. Jim passes by, and Tom tries to get him to do some of the whitewashing in return for a “white alley,” a kind of marble. Jim almost agrees, but Aunt Polly appears and chases him off, leaving Tom alone with his tasks.

Tom comes home at supper time. He looks so sullen that his father, Mr. Tom Sawyer, asks about his adventures. The latter has grown fond of his adventures and often wonders about the stories Tom tells. Tom’s half-brother, Ben, asks how his work is going, to which Tom responds, “It’s no use!”

Tom went out of the house in a sulk. He had been asked to wash the dishes and had refused. He went out into the street and found a group of boys playing a game of marbles. Tom joined in and eventually chased the newcomers all the way home.
